DETAILED ACTION

Priority

1. Receipt is acknowledged of papers submitted under 35 U.S.C. 119(a)-(d), which papers have been placed of record in the file.

Information Disclosure Statement

The information disclosure statement (IDS) submitted on 11/03 is in compliance with the provisions of 37 CFR 1.97. Accordingly, the examiner is considering the information disclosure statement. Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

2. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-26 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Onuma et al "778" in view of Matsunaga et al "490" and Matsunaga et al "234". Onuma et al teaches a toner comprising a binder resin, a coloring agent and a wax. The toner is used in low-temperature fixing of an image with excellent anti-blocking characteristics. The wax note Col.4. line - 48-Col. 5 line 55 can be a hydrocarbon wax such as Fischer-Tropsh wax. Onuma et al fails to show a weight function for the deformation of the toner. This physical property of the toner does not exclude it from known toners when the known toners have the same composition. The fixing of an image by heat can be related to many physical measurements of the toner. Matsunaga "234" uses a loss elastic modulus and storage modulus to provide a toner composition having low fixing temperature and low offset phenomenon. It is noted that the ratio of loss elastic modulus can be related to the temperature at which the binder resin contained in the toner begins to undergo thermal deformation and that this closely correlates with the fixing performance of the toner. Note Col. 6 lines 15-65. The amount of deformation is related to the binder resin. Matsunaga "490" uses the same binder resin as applicants that has a similar DSC as applicants with a hybrid resin having a vinyl polymer and a polyester. It would be obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of applicants' invention with a reasonable expectation of success to use the binders such as those having a hybrid resin with known rheological characteristics as the binders in the toner composition of Onuma to control the fixability of the developed image.

Double Patenting

3. The nonstatutory double patenting rejection is based on a judicially created doctrine grounded in public policy (a policy reflected in the statute) so as to prevent the unjustified or improper timewise extension of the "right to exclude" granted by a patent and to prevent possible harassment by multiple assignees. See In re Goodman, 11 F.3d 1046, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993); In re Longi, 759 F.2d 887, 225 USPQ 645 (Fed. Cir. 1985); In re Van Ornum, 686 F.2d 937, 214 USPQ 761 (CCPA 1982); In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970); and, In re Thorington, 418 F.2d 528, 163 USPQ 644 (CCPA 1969).

A timely filed terminal disclaimer in compliance with 37 CFR 1.321(c) may be used to overcome an actual or provisional rejection based on a nonstatutory double patenting ground provided the conflicting application or patent is shown to be commonly owned with this application. See 37 CFR 1.130(b).

Effective January 1, 1994, a registered attorney or agent of record may sign a terminal disclaimer. A terminal disclaimer signed by the assignee must fully comply with 37 CFR 3.73(b).

4. Claims 1-22 are provisionally rejected under the judicially created doctrine of double patenting over claim 1 of copending Application No. 10/212150. This is a provisional double patenting rejection since the conflicting claims have not yet been patented.

The subject matter claimed in the instant application is fully disclosed in the referenced copending application and would be covered by any patent granted on that copending application since the referenced copending application and the instant application are claiming common subject matter, as follows: Both claim a toner with a binder , wax, and colorant having a DSC within a specific range.

Furthermore, there is no apparent reason why applicant would be prevented from presenting claims corresponding to those of the instant application in the other copending application. See In re Schneller, 397 F.2d 350, 158 USPQ 210 (CCPA 1968). See also MPEP § 804.
